

Cryptological Newsletter

matt@cryptological.app | AUG 29, 2025 10:36 AM | 1 minute(s) read

Cryptological Newsletter #01

Hi, this is the first ever news letter of the Cryptological App!
If you are reading this, you are awesome. (Hi Jak)

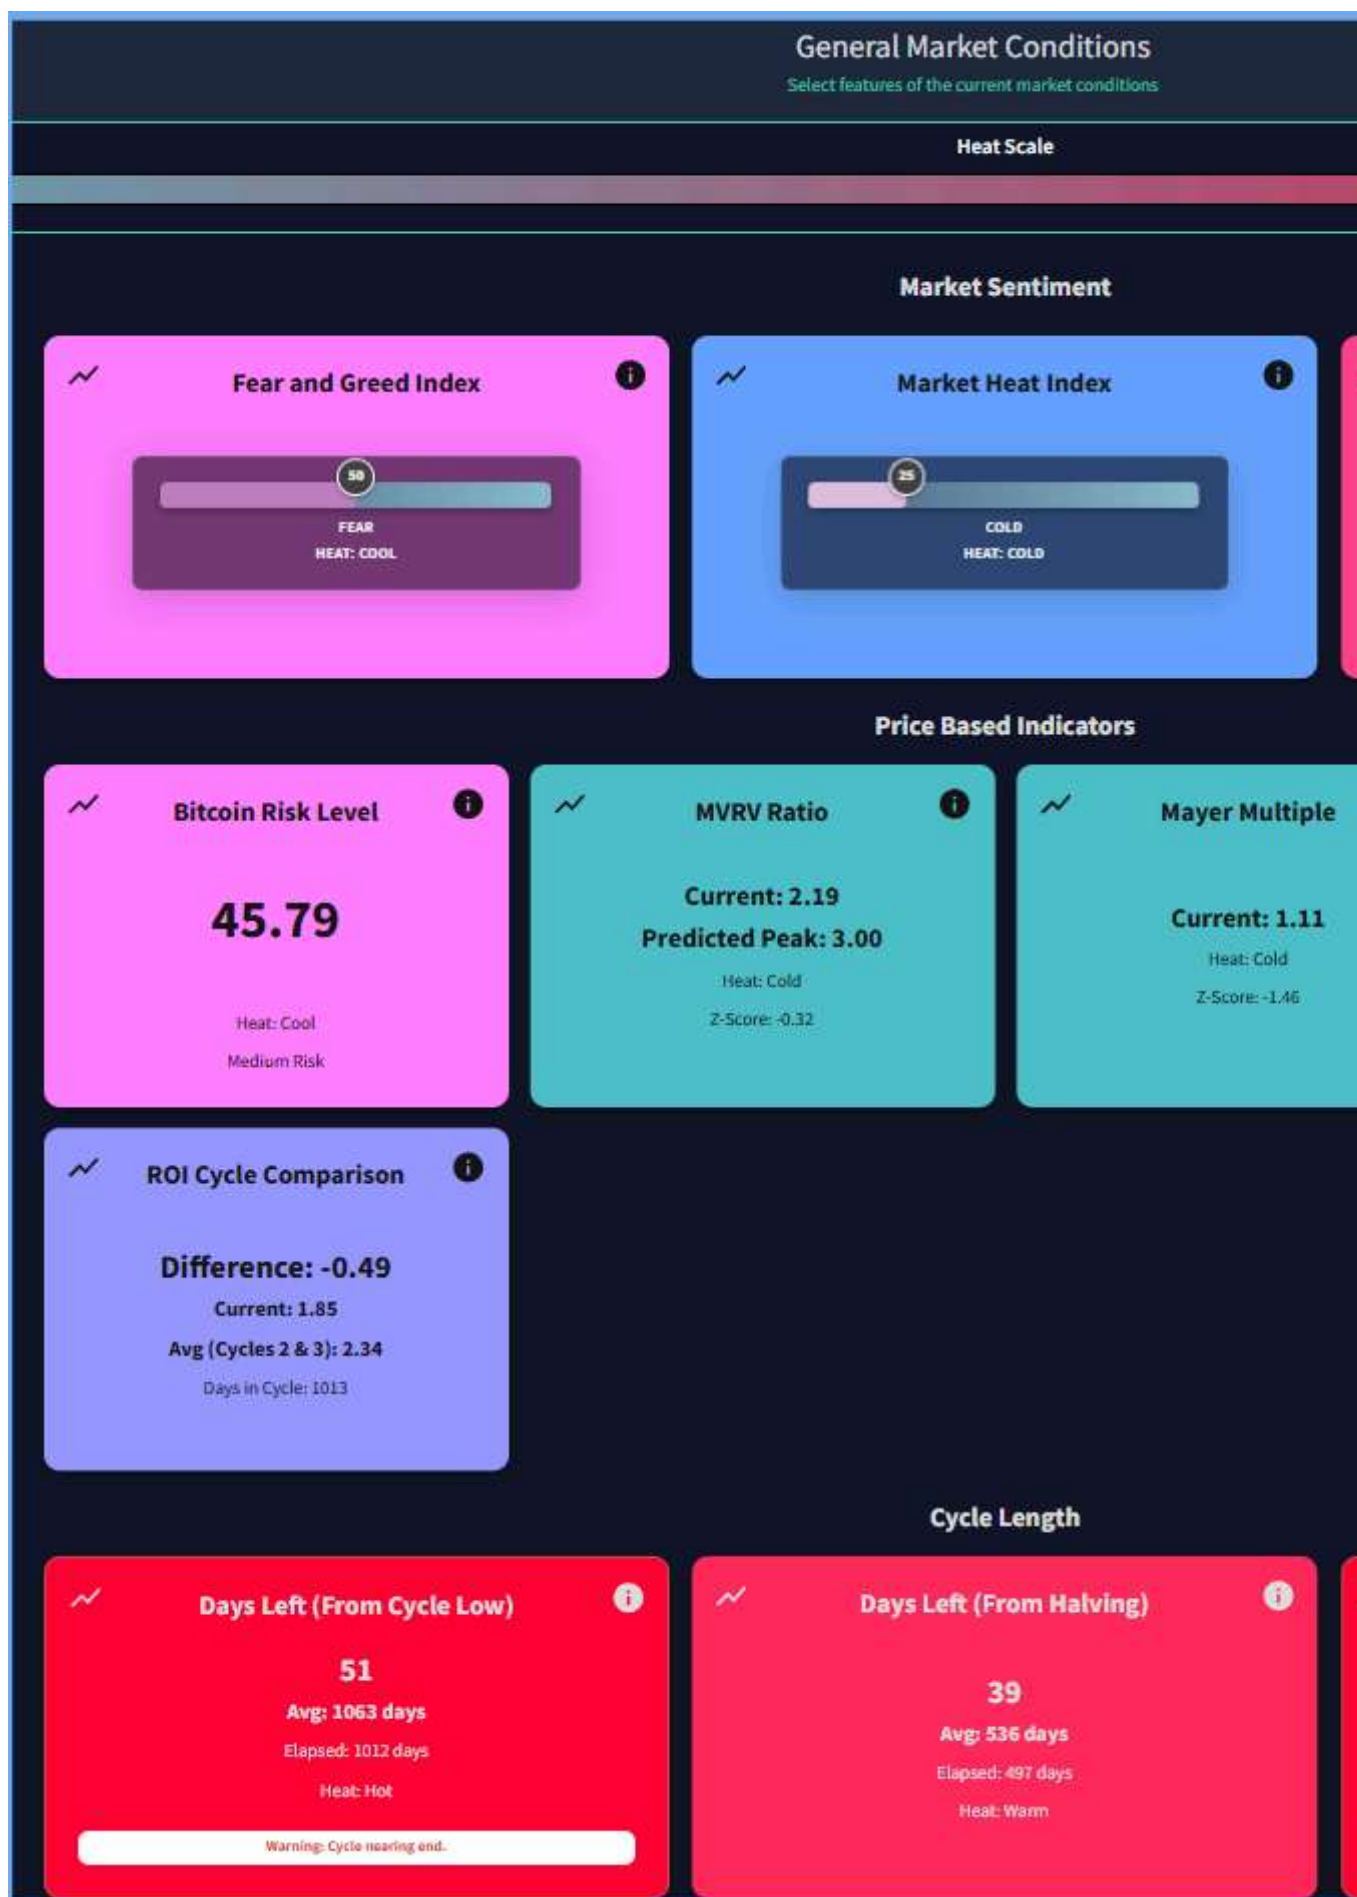

Bitcoin looks like it is continuing on it's collision course with the Bull Market Support Band, which currently sits at $107.5k. The next level of support will likely come from the 50 week moving average which has served as support twice on drops so far during this bull market, and is currently sitting at $94.4k.

No-one can predict exactly when the bull market will officially end, or what the price will be when it does, but if this time around lasts around the same time as the average of the previous 2 cycles, we are looking at approximately 2 months remaining until this cycle equals the average length of a Bull Market cycle.

This is not a prediction, we are just looking at historical data to help us make informed decisions with the tools available to us.

At 1063 days since the last cycle low, this is the current state of some key indicators:

Access to the Market Overview and all other Premium features are available at Cryptological.app.

Thanks for reading

Until next time

Matt

